

"SILVER OR GOLD?" ASK THE ORATORS

CHAMPIONS OF BOTH METALS IN DEBATE.

Ex-Congressman Horr Opens the Discussion—First Chapter of "Coin's Financial School" The Basis of the Day's Argument—Summary of Arguments.

Chicago, July 17.—The great financial debate between the advocates of silver and gold began in earnest yesterday when the two representatives of these two financial schools, W. H. Harvey and Hon. Roswell G. Horr, met in the greatest and most novel forensic contest that has ever taken place in this country. Not since the great debate between Webster and Hayne, when Webster laid low the champion of State's rights, has there been such intense interest manifested in a debate. There were present in the art gallery of the Illinois Club the representative business men of the city, besides a large number from outside of Chicago. The audience numbered nearly 200, all men who were deeply interested in the subject of finance. The judges elected were Hon. H. G. Miller and Judge William A. Vincent.

W. H. HARVEY.

President Thomas opened the meeting with a brief statement of its purpose and introduced Hon. W. G. Miller, who read the rules agreed upon to govern the debate.

The first speaker of the day was Hon. Roswell G. Horr.

EXPLAINS HIS POSITION.

Mr. Horr Talks of the Foundation of the Discussion.

(Copyright, 1895, by Axel F. Hatch.)

Mr. Horr began the great debate by stating that the foundation of the discussion was the book called "Coin's Financial School." He said: "The real aim and object of that book is to convince the people of the United States that the government alone should at once enter upon the free and unlimited coinage of silver upon the old ratio of 16 to 1. The wisdom of such a course I dispute. Mr. Harvey will still maintain the affirmatives of that issue."

"I am not here as an opponent of bi-metallicism. I believe in the use of gold and silver as money to the fullest extent that can be done on sound business principles. I also believe that in the business of our nation the people should never attempt to use either metal except at its actual value, only in case where one metal may be used as token money and be made redeemable in metal at its commercial value.

"If we are compelled to decide between gold monometallism and silver monometallism, then I am decidedly in favor of adopting the standard used by the civilized nations of the world. I do not believe that silver has ever been demonetized anywhere in the world. I believe that the law of 1873, which Mr. Harvey's book denounces as a 'crime,' was honestly conceived, openly advocated, and passed by the American Congress after full deliberation, and because the people at that time who held seats in the American Congress believed that such a law ought to be enacted."

"I do not believe in the teachings of this book, that this Nation is on the verge of financial ruin or that starvation is staring our people in the face. I believe if our Nation should adopt the course advocated in this book it would seriously injure the entire wage earners of the United States. I believe we would destroy the confidence of the business men of the world in our integrity as a Nation and that we would precipitate such a financial panic as our country has never before seen."

"I deny most emphatically that the great majority of the people of this country are in debt, and shall insist that three-fourths of the American people are creditors and not debtors, and that consequently the system which Mr. Harvey advocates would work great injury to the great majority of American citizens.

"Understand me, in a few words I believe that the American Nation should have just as good money as any nation uses on the face of the earth; I believe that every dollar paid to a poor man for his daily toll should be worth as much as the dollars paid to men who are I would have the money which measures values the most stable that can be devised, and would insist that buyers and sellers, lenders and debtors, as nearly as possible be required to use the same measure of values, and shall insist that repudiation in all forms is disgraceful and dishonorable in the case of nations, corporations, or individuals."

"What our people need is good credit, good money, good principles, and sound business sense."

"Visionary schemes and debased money never yet made a nation prosperous. The quality of the money used in any country is far more important than the quantity. Laws should be drawn to protect the men who earn money as well as those who owe money. A man who works faithfully and lives on his daily earnings should never be sacrificed for the benefit of men who live on what they borrow."

MR. HARVEY REPLIES.

Propositions of His Notable Book Which He Defends.

(Copyright, 1895, by Axel F. Hatch.)

Mr. Harvey in turn defined his position, speaking as follows: "I am here to defend the facts and principles in Coin's Financial School. I expect to make good in this debate the following propositions:

"1. That silver and gold are the money of the Constitution. That the silver dollar was the unit of value in our coinage system in this country from 1792 to 1873, just as the yard stick was the measure of length. That gold was measured in this silver unit, and concurrent coinage given to it (gold). That silver and gold combined constituted the legal standard of value in this country till 1873. Silver measured gold; the two together measured all other property."

"2. That the act of 1873 was surreptitiously passed."

"3. That during the period of 1792 to 1873 the mints were opened to the unlimited coinage of both metals into primary or redemption money, and that both were treated as such. That during that period people had a right to have either metal coined into full legal tender money, and that the option was with the debtor to pay in coins of either metal."

"4. That this bimetallic system made an unlimited demand for both metals to be coined into money, increased the demand for these metals, and under this law authorizing any one to coin 37 1/2 grains of silver and 23 2-10 grains of gold into a dollar there was no one willing to sell either for less than a dollar."

"5. That the option to pay in either metal caused the cheaper of the two metals to be used and transferred the demand from the dearer to the cheaper metal and restored its relative commercial value. We are called silver men because we are defending the metal that has been demonetized, but we are nevertheless for both gold and silver."

"6. That it is to the interest of the United States to act independently in the remonetization of silver at the ratio of gold of 16 to 1 without waiting for the action of any other nation."

"7. That monometallism consists in the use of the dearer of the two metals to the exclusion of the other as primary or redemption money. That monometallism is an experiment on trial for the first time in the history of the world, and began with the period of 1873. That it is impossible and impracticable as a stable money measurement of values; is not based on scientific financial principles; is in the interest of the money-lenders and against the interest of the property-owners and laborers."

"8. That the gold unit as the measure of values with no concurrent coinage of another metal to assist it in performing the functions of primary money, has caused the fall in prices as compared with 1872, when the world's prices of property were measured in the money mass of both metals. That all prices of property and labor have declined accordingly as compared with 1872, except when held up relatively by increased demand or short supply or combines and trusts or special reasons affecting a particular service or property. That the average price of all production, except gold, will show this decline in adjusting itself to the gold standard. And that when we include in labor the unemployed and the time lost by those employed there is a fall in wages of one-half as compared with 1872. That labor is adjusting itself to the gold standard measurement of values. That the gold standard is confiscating the property of people and depriving labor of work."

"9. That the decline in prices covering a period of twenty-two years has, as a rule, made all classes of productive, mercantile and manufacturing business unprofitable. That a falling market covering a long period destroys the prospective profits based on cost of purchase and production, and a majority of our most astute business men cannot avoid failure or loss of capital under these conditions."

"10. That it has worked a hardship and injury to debtors, who, unconscious of the causes that continuously reduced the prices of their property have contracted debts during those twenty-two years. That this fall in prices causes a sacrifice of property to purchase the dollars with which to liquidate these debts. That this has caused the renewal of debts, the contraction of new debts to pay old debts, and an enlarged volume of all debts. That this unjustly takes from a debtor his property and money measurement of values."

"11. That in the end no one is benefited by a fall in prices but the money-lender, the owner of money and securities payable in money-fixed incomes."

"12. That the foregoing facts and conditions produced by a change in our money measurement of values will impoverish the masses of the people."

UNIONISTS AHEAD IN EVERY SECTION

MAJORITY OF 34 AT 3 O'CLOCK THIS AFTERNOON.

Prospects Indicate a Majority of 83 For Lord Salisbury's Government—Over 125 Districts Have Voted and 200 Members Hold Over, Many Being Conservatives.

London, July 17.—Unionists are still gaining in the elections. They have thirty-four majority in sight at 3 p. m., and if the gains continue the Unionists majority in the new Parliament will number 83, and the indications are the final figures will be above rather than below that point. The Unionists have thus far made a net gain of more than one-fifth of all the seats which have been contested; in other words, in 125 districts already contested the net Unionist gain is 13 seats. There will be more than 200 districts in which no contest will take place, and of these fully four-fifths are Unionist.

ILLINOIS LEGISLATURE.

No Quorum of Senators Yesterday—Business in the House.

Springfield, Ill., July 17.—Five senators were in their seats when David T. Littler of Sangamon county called the upper house of the General Assembly to order yesterday morning. No business was done. It is thought there may be some business done this week, although it is doubtful, as Wednesday has been set aside as a memorial day to the late Speaker Meyers, and Friday is the usual day for adjournment until Monday, so the senate will only get in two days of work this week—Tuesday and Thursday.

In the house Mr. White of Whiteside moved that all bills on the subject of arbitration of labor strikes be read a first time and referred to the committee of the whole. This was done, and as the bills are long it occupied the greater portion of the forenoon.

Mr. Revell of Cook introduced a bill to regulate the time of holding court in counties of the third class. Cook is the only county of this class in the state. The bill will reduce the emoluments of the judicial position. When all bills on arbitration had been read a first time and referred to the committee of the whole, the bills on revenue were acted upon in the same manner. A number of miscellaneous bills were then introduced, after which the house took a recess until 2:30 in the afternoon. Then Hogan's bill, which was No. 1, was taken up section by section. The entire afternoon was spent discussing section 1, which contains most of the points to which objection is made. After much discussion, an amendment offered by Kitzmiller was adopted. It provides that one of the board shall be an employer of labor or a member of some association of employers, and one only a member of some labor discussion. Gibson, of Cook, offered a proposition for temporary boards, instead of a permanent board. He would have arbitrators named by the governor for each dispute as it arose. There were several speeches against Gibson's proposition, and the question was left unsettled when the house rose from committee of the whole and adjourned for the day.

Assistant State Treasurer Whittemore said yesterday that before the next tax levy begins to come in state warrants will have to go unpaid. The only relief he sees is in the holding back of some of the larger appropriations until the new levy comes in next spring and summer. Gov. Altgeld, however, judiciously used and are not paid out until actually needed, to make all necessary payments before a levy is available. He maintains that the trouble will arise later from the fact that the general assembly did not make a levy sufficient to meet its appropriations.

HORSE THIEVES ESCAPE.

Oklahoma Desperadoes Outwit a Posse of Farmers.

Hennessy, O. T., July 17.—The posse of farmers organized at Sheridan to capture Yeager's gang of horse-thieves found the trail twenty-five miles west of Waukomis and ran part of the gang to cover in a log house. After twenty hours' siege the outlaws, five in number, forced two women living there to walk ahead of them as shields to keep the posse from shooting and, each drawing a brace of Colt's revolvers they made their escape to the heavy timber, firing a number of shots to keep the posse from pressing them too closely. They released the women after making them walk over a mile, and stealing horses from farmers, made their escape.

THE MORA CLAIM.

Spaniards Thak the Demand Ungenerous at This Time.

London, July 17.—A Madrid dispatch to the Standard says: "I am able to state that the diplomatic correspondence between Madrid and Washington regarding the Mora claim was couched in friendly terms with a view to avoiding a disturbance of the cordial relations between the two countries. Spaniards unanimously consider it ungenerous on the part of Washington to make the payment of the Mora claim the price of its neutrality in Cuba. They regard it as tantamount to encouraging the disaffected colonists, who only seek American nationality in order to be better able to play traitors to Spain with impunity."

THINKS THERE WILL BE NO TROUBLE.

New York, July 17.—Shinichiro Kurino, Japanese minister to the United States, has just returned from Newport on his way to Washington and talks freely of affairs in the orient. He does not think there will be any trouble between his country and Russia.

MURDERER HOLMES TO BE EXTRADITED

HE WILL BE TAKEN BACK TO CANADA.

Toronto Authorities Think They Have a Sure Case Against the Killer of the Pletzel Children—Holmes Blames the Killing on "Hatch"—Interest Felt at Galva.

Toronto, Ont., July 17.—It is stated by the police authorities that if the coroner's jury, sworn in to investigate the death of the Pletzel children, brings in a verdict of murder against Holmes there will be issued at once a writ for his arrest on a charge of murder, and application will be made to the Philadelphia authorities for his extradition.

The jury in the case is composed of leading business men. Its work was purely formal. It consisted of the identification of the bodies of the two little girls as those found in the cellar of the St. Vincent street cottage and then it adjourned till this evening to hear the report on the post-mortem examination. The bodies are in an advanced stage of decomposition, and the work of the doctors is being carried forward with difficulty. They have so far discovered no marks of violence on the bodies, and as far as can be told, the cause of death was probably by suffocation. Detectives are still working on the case, but they did their work so well on Monday there is but little left to do.

A few additional facts in the case have been obtained which makes a very strong circumstantial case against Holmes. The man who carted the mattress and bedstead to the cottage was located, and it is expected he will be able to identify Holmes at the proper time, and the mattress and bedstead were also found in possession of the tenant of the cottage who lived in it after Holmes moved out. The theory of Detective Geyer, of Philadelphia, is that Howard, the brother of the girls, was murdered in Detroit, where Holmes rented a house for a time and acted in the same manner as he did in renting and using the cottage here.

Geyer, who thoroughly investigated the case in Detroit, believes that a large stove was moved into the house in Detroit shortly after Holmes rented it, and that Howard was murdered there, and that his body was cremated in that house. This belief is strengthened by the fact that one of the letters written by one of the Pletzel girls to their mother and found in Holmes' trunk after his arrest mentioned that they had not seen Howard since they left Detroit. A still more startling statement is made by Detective Geyer that searches made in Toronto have given a clew to the murder of Minnie R. Williams, who was Holmes' typewriter in Chicago, of which crime Holmes is suspected, and also of the place where the body is hidden.

HOLMES MAKES A STATEMENT.

Blames the Mythical "Hatch" for the Murder of the Children.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 17.—Holmes, who is accused of the murder of the Pletzel children, was brought from the county prison yesterday to the district attorney's office and was closeted there with District Attorney Graham and Assistant District Attorney Barlow, for an hour. Holmes, as would be supposed, denied any knowledge of the murder of the Pletzel children. According to Mr. Shoemaker, Holmes' lawyer, Holmes will be able to prove an alibi, showing that he could not have been in Toronto at the time the children were killed. This alibi will be partly based upon the testimony of Holmes' third wife, who is known as "Mrs. Howard." It is said that she will testify that Holmes was traveling with her during the time the Pletzel children were in Toronto.

According to Mr. Shoemaker, Holmes says the Pletzel children were killed by a man named Hatch. This Hatch is a mythical sort of a person and, according to Holmes, is a very disreputable character. Hatch, Holmes says, is a friend of Minnie Williams. Holmes, in the statement made by his lawyer, says that he gave the two children in charge of Minnie Williams and Hatch, despite the latter's character, at Buffalo, with instructions to go to Europe. Holmes asserts that he sewed $400 in the dress of the younger child and $1,000 in the dress of the older girl to pay their expenses in Europe. Holmes says it must have been this $1,400 that tempted Hatch and led him to ill the children.

MURDERED BY HOLMES.

Belief That the Pletzel Boy Was Killed at Indianapolis Last October.

Indianapolis, July 17.—The statement is printed here that the Pletzel boy, the brother of Alice and Nellie Pletzel, whose dead bodies were unearthed in the cellar of a house at Toronto, was beyond doubt murdered in this city on Oct. 6 last, presumably by H. H. Holmes, the insurance swindler, now in custody at Philadelphia. It has been developed that an express driver, by agreement with Holmes, called at the old Circle house on that date and removed through a rear door a large trunk, which is believed to have contained the boy's remains. The driver has identified the picture of Holmes as that of the man who employed him. The three Pletzel children were in this city at three different hotels for some time. Detective Frank Geyer of Philadelphia, who has spent a greater part of his time in this city recently working on the case, said that the web was being woven around Holmes, and that he would beyond doubt be found to be the murderer of the Pletzel children.

Interest Felt at Galva.

Galva, Ill., July 17.—The finding of the two Pletzel children has revived the interest in the Holmes swindle case. Dossie, and Horton, sister and brother of the murdered children, are here with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Canning. Dossie is a girl of 17 years and Horton a babe about 1 1/2 years old. They came here with their mother from Philadelphia about a month ago. Mrs. Pletzel went to Chicago last week and has not yet returned. Mr. and Mrs. Canning, the parents of Mrs. Pletzel, are well known here and highly respected. They are greatly worried over the matter, and think that Pletzel and the missing boy are dead. B. F. Pletzel is well known by many people here, as he formerly lived a few miles east of this place.

EXPORTS FOR THE LAST YEAR.

They Exceed the Imports by $30,984,449 According to Official Figures.

Washington, July 17.—A statement of the imports, exports and immigration of the United States during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1895, shows as follows: Merchandise exported, $806,693,261; last year, $891,907,709; merchandise imported, $731,960,319, of which about one-half was free of duty. The gold coin and bullion exported during the last fiscal year amounted to $66,131,183 and the imports, $35,984,449. The exports last year, therefore, were $30,146,734 in excess of the imports. In the previous year the exports exceeded the imports by $4,528,942.

IMPORTANT FOR INDIANA.

Judge Moffett Folds Apportionment Act Unconstitutional.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 17.—Judge Moffett yesterday in the suit to set aside the legislative apportionment act passed by the Republican Legislature last winter, held that the act of 1895, repealing the act of 1891, as well as the act of 1895 reapportioning the State, are both void because, under the constitution, an apportionment act can be passed only every sixth year. The case will be appealed to the Supreme Court.

Toledo, O., July 17.—A jury after a consultation of scarce three-fourths of an hour returned a verdict last night declaring Dr. Adam Edmond, of Tontogany, O., not guilty of the murder of Mrs. Olive Peaney. Following quickly on this came the announcement that the indictment against Mrs. Edmond, the doctor's wife, who likewise had been charged with the murder, had been dismissed.

KILLED IN A WRECK ON THE "PENNSY"

FIREMAN DEAD AND CONDUCTOR WOUNDED.

Freight Smash up on the Trenton Branch—Two More of the Lake Geneva Victims Have Been Recovered—Steamer Ariel Safe in Richmond.

Norristown, Pa., July 17.—Four men were killed and a conductor seriously wounded in the wreck of a freight train on the Trenton branch of the Pennsylvania road this morning.

Victims of the Dispatch.

Lake Geneva, Wis., July 17.—At 7:30 o'clock yesterday the diver who has been at work for several days searching for the victims of the Dispatch accident, brought to the surface the bodies of John Preston, the engineer of the yacht, and Baby Hogan. The search for the body of Mrs. Hogan has so far been unsuccessful.

Richmond, Va., July 17.—The steamer Ariel, reported sunk in the James River with a crowd of colored excursionists, has arrived safely at Petersburg. It was delayed by the storm.

FATE OF RUSTLERS.

Cattle Thieves Thought to Have Been Lynched.

Butte, Neb., July 17.—There is a general belief here that the rustlers captured by the vigilantes Sunday have been lynched. The vigilantes found the rustlers in camp in the stockade at Fair, prepared to protect their stolen property. The fort was quickly surrounded, and the men, realizing the futility of resistance, surrendered to the vigilantes. They were quickly disarmed, bound hand and foot, and placed on their horses and started west, presumably for Keya Paha county. The men captured were: Louis Zouadani, a resident of Spencer, Neb.; S. C. Clark, C. S. Murphy, and C. H. Jackson, who lived west of Spring View. Nearly 100 head of cattle were found.

But few here think the rustlers reached Spring View, as the vigilantes are old ranchers and seldom bring a rustler back when they have a good chance to make away with him. Others believe that because of the publicity given to the affair the men in charge will not dare to make away with them, but will turn them over to the authorities at Spring View, when other parties will take them from the officers, and they will likely share the usual fate of rustlers.

STRIKERS STOP ALL WORK.

Force a General Shut-Down in the Ishpeming and Negaunee District.

Ishpeming, Mich., July 17.—The situation with reference to the strike at Ishpeming and Negaunee gradually grows more interesting. All work at the mines has ceased and the steam shovels and all surface operations were stopped by the strikers yesterday at 6 o'clock p. m. The miners at Winthrop and the Lake Superior section, three miles north of Ishpeming, were also called out. About 2,500 men from both cities held a secret mass-meeting at the park, midway between the two towns, in the morning. They decided to hold out as long as possible and to molest all who dare to resume work. Committees were appointed to submit propositions to the different companies for higher pay. They will demand $2 per day for miners, $1.75 for trammers and other underground laborers and $1.50 for all surface hands. It is expected that the committees will meet the mine officials to-day, but a settlement may not be effected for some time.

At the conclusion of the meeting the men marched to Negaunee, where they stopped the shovels and all other work going on there. They returned to Ishpeming later in the day and compelled every man employed by the mines here save those in charge of the machinery and pumps to quit work. The companies have canceled all boats and are prepared for a general shut-down. Ore trains between here and lake ports will be canceled.

Express Robbery at Omaha.

Omaha, Neb., July 17.—The detectives are puzzled over the robbery of the Pacific Express Company of a money packet containing $6,000. It was received last Wednesday from a messenger and consigned to Omaha parties. Suspicion points to clerks in the office, but no arrests have been made. Chief of Police White has the case in hand. He cannot be induced to talk, nor will the express officials give any information concerning the matter. It is expected that important facts will soon be developed.

Luscombe Continues His Evidence.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 17.—Robert Luscombe was again on the stand yesterday in his own defense against the charge of having murdered Emil Sanger. His recital consisted in enumerating conversations he had with various persons previous to the shooting in which these persons told him of threats Sanger made against his life. He did not dare to go on the street or to his office. Mrs. Mary Pulwinski, a neighbor of Luscombe's, testified to seeing Sanger at Luscombe's house armed and trying to gain admission.

Ready for the Baptist Convention.

Baltimore, Md., July 17.—Over 2,000 delegates to the National Convention of the Baptist Young People's Union have arrived here, mostly from Eastern and Southern States. Six thousand more, including 1,200 from Illinois, are expected. All the Baptist churches, the hotels, and boarding houses are decorated. The headquarters were opened yesterday, and will remain open day and night until the convention is over.

Don't forget the Jubilee at the Myers Grand tonight.

BLOUSE BODICES.

Beautiful Bodices—Lace Collars and Cuffs.
The Popular Valenciennes.

Blouse bodices, once the synonym for useful simplicity, have blossomed into the greatest elaboration and are the principal fashionable feature of the season. Plain ones for morning wear are finished with collar and cuffs of cambric and embroidery, the former varying in size from the small turned down variety to the large Marie Antoinette, the Cromwell and similar capelike styles, which, although expensive and delicate in their combination of tucks, fine embroidery and valenciennes lace, are yet not so formal looking as lace, which has so long prevailed. It is beginning to be again felt that muslin and cambric are more suitable for the forenoon, when simplicity, at least of general effect, is most appropriate. Nothing is more out of place than flowers, feathers and lace when shopping or walking before luncheon. A cambric collar can be made at home by clever fingers, and any old lace collar will serve as a pattern from which to cut. White cambric with insets of embroidery, trimmed with ecru or yellow lace, is eminently fashionable. Outgrown baby dresses, with their delicate handwork, are ripped and made over into these pretty accessories. Valenciennes lace, after a long retirement from favor, is again to the front and is extremely popular. It is said that the price of real, old lace has gone down in consequence of the perfect imitations now made by machinery, and the modern designs are certainly both artistic and novel. There are to be capes of cambric and embroidery as the season advances, which will be exceedingly pretty.

Some of the prettiest and lightest of summer costumes are those made of this taffeta in delicate colors. The one shown in the sketch is of pearl gray taffeta with pale blue and old rose lozenges. The skirt forms godets all around and has an application of guipure about the foot. A large plait adorns the front. The bodice has three plaits from shoulder to waist and a bertha of guipure, which is full over the shoulders, but passes in a flat band under the plaits. The short sleeves are of extremely balloon form and are finished by a pointed cuff of guipure. The belt and draped collar are of rose satin, the hat of black straw trimmed with rose satin ribbon and black plumes.

COSTLY FASHIONS.

Rich Silks of Beautiful Designs—Twelve Yard Skirts.

Exceedingly rich brocades are fashionable for those who can afford to buy them. The designs are mainly of the Louis Quatorze and Louis Quinze periods and consist of sprays of roses and trails of foliage connected by graceful knots of ribbon. These are of the most delicate and wonderful coloring, the ground surface being enriched by satin and moire stripes or embroidered in jewels and spangles. Where so expensive goods cannot be indulged in for entire gowns it is employed for the immense sleeves, and fortunate shoppers sometimes find remnants of this rich material sufficient for the purpose at greatly reduced prices. When sleeves are not the aim, the remnant may be usefully employed in a tea jacket for extra fine occasions.

Although the best dressed women always avoid extremes, there are extremes. For instance, some of the latest skirts are 12 yards around the foot and contain 24 yards of 27 inch goods. In order to hold so much material the skirts have full godets in front as well as behind and at the sides, and how any woman not a professional athlete can carry such a garment with its linings is inconceivable.

Large fans are going out of fashion, and the small pompadour style is now carried by up to date women. This diminution of size means no decrease of cost, however, as fine workmanship and being at the very point of fashion bring the tiniest trifle to a high pitch of expense. The large fan is, however, always picturesque and will doubtless come into favor again in course of time, so it is worth while to put it away in lavender until its time comes around once more.

The costume shown in the sketch is of reed green broche silk. The godet skirt is plain. The bodice has a sort of blouse effect in front, given by chains of fine beads. This bead blouse is mounted under a yoke shaped piece of beaded passementerie. The balloon sleeves have deep, plain cuffs. The belt is a band of passementerie. With this gown is worn a yellow straw hat trimmed with puffs of straw colored gauze and roses with foliage. A rose is fastened at the belt. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Voyagers For Pleasure

Or business, persons on the point of taking an "outing" on land or sea, yachtsmen and tourists need and should be provided with some preventive of sea sickness and corrective of the occasional ill effects of accustomed air, food and water. Many nervous persons experience quills akin to sea sickness when traveling by rail. They, too, require a medicinal safeguard. The best in existence is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which promptly relieves nausea, sick headache, biliousness, cramps and colic, etc. If business calls you to some locality where chills and fever or bilious remittent is prevalent, don't fail to provide yourself with it. For constipation, rheumatism and inactivity of the kidneys it is an excellent remedy. Eminent physicians commend it highly. Lay in a supply before you start by boat, steamer or train. It is a most serviceable traveling companion.

If the Baby is Cutting Teeth,

Narcoti-Cure

CURES THE TOBACCO HABIT
IN 4 TO 10 DAYS
OR MONEY REFUNDED.

Use All the Tobacco You Want Till Your "Craving" is Gone.

Narcoti-Cure is the only remedy in the world that acts directly on the nerves and drives the nicotine from the system in four to ten days. It leaves the patient in better health than before taking, and is warranted free from all injurious ingredients.

Narcoti-Cure is popular because it allows the patient to use all the tobacco he wants while under treatment, or until the "craving" and "hankering" are gone. It is then no sacrifice to throw away tobacco forever.

Narcoti-Cure is sold at the uniform price of $5 a bottle, and one bottle cures.

Money refunded if a cure is not effected when taken according to directions.

The Narcoti Chemical Co.,
Springfield, Mass.

Gentlemen:—Replying to yours of the 1st would say that I have used tobacco for 46 years and of late have consumed a 10 cent plug a day, besides smoking considerably. I commenced to use tobacco when I was only 11 years old, and have never been able to give up the habit until I took Narcoti-Cure, although I have tried other so-called remedies without effect. After using your remedy four days all "hankering" for chewing disappeared, and in four days more smoking became unpleasant. I have no further desire for the weed, and expect to see no bad effects, whatever. I am gaining flesh, and feel better than I have for a long time. To all who wish to be free from the tobacco habit I would say use Narcoti-Cure.

Yours truly, W. N. WAITE.

If your druggist is unable to give you full particulars about NARCOTI-CURE, send to us for Book of Particulars free, or send $5 for a bottle by mail

Having all parts of the Furnace which are in contact with the fuel in combustion made of HEAVY CAST IRON.

The fire chamber being entirely sectional, provides amply for expansion in heating.

The upright corrugated sections forming the fire chamber being subjected to a uniform heat on all sides, in proportion to their constructed thickness affords a perfect surety against cracking or warping as six years of crucial tests have proven.

With an exceedingly great amount of heating surface in direct contact with the fuel, no part of the same is so intensely heated, as where only a globe fire pot is provided.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

1744—Elbridge Gerry, "signer" and statesman, born at Marblehead, Mass.; died 1814.

1745—Timothy Pickering, statesman, born in Salem, Mass.; died 1829.

1749—Peter Gansevoort, soldier, born in Albany; died 1812. Gansevoort joined the Revolutionary forces as major of the Second New York regiment after Lexington. His services were chiefly in central New York, where he contended against the Indians and British. One of his victories was the defense of Fort Stanwix, where he defeated St. Leger and prevented his co-operation with Burgoyne. The siege lasted 20 days.

Afterward Gansevoort, at the time a colonel, led a picked body of men on the Sullivan expedition along the Mohawks and was rewarded by promotion to brigadier general.

1768—Charlotte Corday was guillotined for killing Marat.

1886—Lewis Cass, statesman, died at Detroit; born 1782.

1893—Thirty buildings in the business district of London burned; loss, £1,500,000.

TREASURY SUITS ENDED

Attorney General Mylrea has decided that the law passed by the last legislature, relieving ex-Treasurers Baetz, Kuehn and McPetridge is constitutional. In a few days he will go before the circuit court and move that the judgments be satisfied, and treasury litigation will be ended. The amounts in which each of the ex-treasurers and their bondsmen were involved, and which is thus released by the state is respectively as follows: Kuehn, $108,163.63; Baetz, $75,408.08; McPetridge, $35,371.48, a total of over $200,000.

McPetridge already has paid the full sum of interest which he received, and interest on this as well, at the rate of over 3 per cent. He has exhausted all his means in liquidating judgments against him. Neither Kuehn nor Baetz have any property and the judgments against them would in most part have to be satisfied by the estates of bondsmen deceased, including those of the late Jeremiah Busk, Alexander Mitchell and Guido Pfister. Interest in the cases has been great because of the political complexion given them, but political considerations have played no part in Attorney General Mylrea's decision.

The questions on which he passed were whether the bills were properly passed amending the constitution and whether the legislature had the right to pass such laws. On both these points he satisfied himself thoroughly, backing his conclusions by the written opinion of ex-Chief Justice Cole, one of the framers of the state constitution.

Reviewing his action in the case the attorney general says:

"An examination of the journals of the two houses of the legislature shows that the bills were passed by the requisite number of the members of the legislature of the respective houses as required by the constitution. A number of people whose only care was political prestige have demanded that the attorney general should submit the question of the validity of these statutes to the supreme court regardless of whether or not there were any doubts upon the question. To have acted in this manner would be an attempt to use the power of the attorney general in violation of his oath of office, and unless he could conscientiously say he had doubt as to the validity of the laws it was his duty to obey the legislature. The veto power, so far as exercising the same to defeat the expressed will of the legislature is concerned, is vested entirely in the governor, and was never given to the attorney general."

SICK OF THEIR FOOLISHNESS

Ex-senator Sanders, of Montana, who says the "free silver talk of newspapers and demagogues is something wearying," must meet with many persons, even in his locality, of his way of thinking. The convention of silver democrats in Denver two or three weeks ago which was attended by "just thirty persons" according to the dispatches, shows that there are thousands of people in the silver regions who feel as Sanders does. People all over the country are dropping the silver issue. The return of good times gives them something better to talk about. Probably it is dropped forever, too. Fifteen, twenty or twenty-five years hence, when bad times return to send a wave of lunacy across the country again a different sort of folly may go to the front.

CAN CARRY NO ROOSTERS.

The men who were rampant for the Wilson bill and hotly indignant at the senate amendments, are not entitled to wear feathers in their hats and carry banners in the harvest-home procession of this year.

Had the congressional elections of last year not returned a majority of republicans, there would be no such improvement as has taken place during the past six months. The result of those elections, evidencing the most sweeping change of sentiment in the history of American politics, not only called a halt to the free trade movement, but demonstrated that a vast majority of American voters believe in the policy of protection and intend that it should be maintained. Just as two years before democratic success was immediately followed by the curtailment of industrial activity, the republican victory in 1894, carrying reassurance to all the business interests of the country, was in a brief time followed by a resumption of industrial activity, and the fact that improvement is going steadily forward is in no small degree due to the general belief that a republican president and congress will be elected next year.

NEED NEW MACHINERY.

There is no subsidence of Canadian agitation for and against separate schools. Manitoba is the disturbing element, and the trouble that district is able to make leads many to lose faith in Canadian methods of parliamentary government.

"I have always contended," declared the late Sir John Macdonald, in 1865, "that if we could agree to have one government and one parliament legislating for the whole people it would be the best, the cheapest and most vigorous system of government we could accept."

But three decades of such government has demonstrated the fallacy of his opinion and the need of revised legislation for Canada.

BAD FOR THE LIBERALS

The liberals in Great Britain are feeling pretty blue, and well they may. The elections seem to be going in favor of the Tories as Maine went for Gov. Kent according to a bit of political doggerel in vogue a generation or more ago. The liberals miss the guiding hand of Gladstone in this crisis. Never was the old man so truly in his element as when leading a fight at the hustings against odds that would dismay ordinary clay, for he was pretty certain to win a brilliant victory. Wide, indeed, is the gulf between Gladstone and a fair weather leader like Roseberry.

Some years ago the democrats elected a governor in Iowa by a plurality of 6523, and the misfortune was repeated two years later by a plurality of 8216. Then the republicans quit fooling with prohibition, and redeemed the state, carrying it last year by a plurality of 79,396, and electing all the eleven congressmen. Of course they will triumph again this year.

Editor Cham Ingersoll respectfully requests the democratic newspapers to "point with pride" to any instance of an advance in wages following democratic tinkering with the tariff until after the election of last November showed that the brief reign of free trade democracy was over.

The papers which are howling against the peril of "third termism" need not worry. The country will take care of that third term idea when the time comes.

Everybody knows that democrats cannot win the next election. Hence wages go up.

LIGHTNING BARELY MISSED HIM

W. T. Dooley Has a Horse Staggered by Celestial Fire Works.

W. T. Dooley barely missed being struck by lightning on the Magnolia road last evening. He and a friend were out six miles when a bolt of lightning that almost stunned them struck but a short distance away. One of their horses staggered to one side of the road and seemed about to fall. Mr. Dooley was once knocked several feet by a shock and begins to doubt about lightning and measles never bothering a man twice.

RACING IN 2:08 3-4

TODAY'S SLATE

AN ASTONISHING MILE IN THE 2:20 PACE.

Pearl C Wins the 2:45 Pacing Race and the 2:19 Pacing Race Goes to Winnie H—Haroul Proves the Best of the Three Year Olds—At the Fair Grounds.

PROMPTLY at 12:30 the horses were called for today's racing as the program was the longest one ever printed on a Janesville score card. There were seven races scheduled, they being the unfinished 2:19 trotting class, the proposed 2:45 pacing and 3 year old pacing classes; the 2:20 and 2:10 pacing classes; the 2:25 trotting class and the 3-year old pacers. Such a galaxy of stars never graced the Janesville track before. Seventeen or more of the horses named have gone miles better than 2:13; a dozen had gone under 2:12, half a dozen under 2:10 and one in 2:05. A few years ago the 2:10 pacing class would have been called the richest kind of a free-for-all, but this year it was just simply "a good one." Last night's rain had not injured the track, and at the appointed hour a goodly crowd was present anxiously awaiting the sound of the starting judge's bell, as all things were favorable and a fair day's sport was in prospect.

A mile in 2:08 3/4 was made in the first heat of the 2:20 pace. The horses finished: Afrite, 1; Aileen, 2; Alice Director, 3; Hall Cloud 4; Mesc am, 5; Miniator and Davy B., distanced.

In the first heat of the 2:10 pace the horses finished: Prairie Lily, 1; Frank Egan, 2; Fido 3; Gazette, 4; Vera Caple, 5; Two Strike, 6; Albert E, 7; Jordan, 8; Rocky P, 9; Tom Ogden, 10; Badge, 11; Belle Mahone, distanced; New Era, distanced. Time 2:11 1/2.

The Unfinished Race.
 The unfinished 2:19 class trotting race excited considerable interest, as Winnie H, who had to go a long mile in the first heat but finished second, had two heats to her credit when the race came. The race resulted:

 Time—2:19 1/4; 2:19 1/4; 2:16 1/4.

The 2:10 Pacers.
 The event that caused the most widespread interest today, was naturally enough, the 2:10 pacing class.

It was the second race on the card but as one unfinished and two postponed races had to be called first it made it the fourth event. In it they were entered fifteen of the gilt edged campaigners of the country. There were Rocky P, 2:10 1/4; Belle Mahone 2:10 1/4; Badge 2:12 1/4; Albert E, 2:10 1/4; Lena Hill 2:12; Tom Ogden 2:12 1/4; Symboler 2:11; Two Strike 2:10 1/4; Vera Capelle, 2:10 1/4; Frank Agan 2:10 1/4; Jordan 2:11 1/4; Gazette 2:09 1/4; New Era 2:13. Princess Tulalia whose two year old record was 2:18 1/4 and last but not least Fido, 2:05 1/4. The latter horse got his record at Davenport last week where he defeated a good field. At LaCrosse, Frank Agan won the first heat in the 2:12 1/4 and was second three times in the 2:11. Rocky P got second in the first heat and third money, while Tom Ogden, Gazette and Albert E were unplaced. At Minneapolis Tom Ogden defeated Frank Agan, Two Strike Albert E and Belle Mahone in 2:11. At Oshkosh Two Strike was the winner in fast time so it can be seen that outside of Fido, whose performance in 2:05 1/4 put him on top of the heap chances seemed to be equal and it was nobody's race.

Another factor in this race was Prairie Lily, owned by F. R. Boyce of Brooklyn, Wis. Boyce's horse had won about all the money in sight in her class and at Boston paced in 2:11 1/4, but four time winners under the rules, had to start in the class to which they were eligible. Prairie Lily was entered in the 2:20 class here, but this rule put her in the 2:10 class.

Next in interest came the 2:20 pacing class. Afrite had won several races pacing in 2:14 1/4, and beating Nellie Wilkes, Meacham, Davy B., Carrie W, Alice Director and others. At Davenport Afrite paced in 2:11 1/4.

The 2:25 Trotting Class.
 There were 23 good ones in the 2:25 trotting class. At La Crosse, Warren P. won the race, his best time being 2:18, defeating a strong field.

The Events For Tomorrow.
 Tomorrow's card is a fine one. First comes the 3 year old 2:40 trotters who will go for a purse of $500. In it are a lot of good ones—26 in all, and they will make a spirited race.

The 2:25 trotting class will be one of the most interesting races of the meeting. There are fourteen stars entered, among them being Maggie Sherman, Maud Wright, Selina F. Montette, Kate Pallamont, Baron Rogers and several others equally as good.

The 2:33 class trotting has twenty-two entries, including Ray W, the winner of the 2:40 race Monday, and many other fast ones.

The 2:20 pacing class will also be a hot contest, as there are twenty-five fast ones entered therein.

NEW CYCLING CLUB COMMITTEES

Big Race Meet To Be Held Here Some Time In August.

Orion Sutherland was made lieutenant of the Arrow Cycling club last evening. F. S. Sheldon was named as a director, vice Fred P. King, and a new race committee was named as follows: Frederick S. Sheldon, George D. Simpson, Charles T. Peirce, Orion Sutherland and Captain J. G. DeLong.

Dr. C. T. Peirce resigned from the house committee, and Charles Ellis, Dr. R. J. Hart, B. E. Nowlan, Morgan Wise and Richard Valentine now comprise the members.

Charles Tallman was awarded the place medal for the Mayflower Park road race. It was decided to hold a racing meeting Friday evening of next week and to secure a date for one of the big three-day meetings on the state circuit. The state meeting probably will be in August. Three new members were elected last night and it was announced that the club's financial condition was gilt-edged.

Keep Them Moving.

Interest does not abate in the least at Lowell's Midway Annex, and why should it with clothing, tinware, shoes, and countless other things so cheap? Goods are bought with the idea of selling them at once; no delay in turning them over. The only way to make money for all is to keep the stock on the move; buy goods cheap and sell them cheaper than others. We do the perpetual motion act and give the people the benefit of low prices. Lowell Hdw. Co.

CROOKS IN DISGUST AT POOR PICKING

RACE TRACK THIEVES ARE LEAVING TOWN.

Three Pickpockets on a Milton Avenue Car—Broken Arm Game Worked to Advantage—Confidence Game Attempted at the C. N. W. Depot—Minor Police Court News.

Chief Acheson says that a number of the more important crooks are disgusted with the town. He counted nine who left on the Oshkosh freight last evening for the north.

Sheriff Appleby spotted three well-known crooks today as they took a street car for the fair grounds. They were all pickpockets and one of them had no fingers on his right hand at that.

The broken-arm game was worked to considerable profit by Thomas Dunn, a race track follower, last evening. He went about town with his arm in a sling, claiming it was broken and asking for money. Officer Hogan finally traced him to the Five Points and put him under arrest. Dunn's arm healed very suddenly when the officer came in sight for he made a very sharp struggle when caught. A three days' sentence with hard labor was imposed today.

Confidence Man Uncovered.
 "How d'ye do?" inquired a smooth looking stranger as he grasped the hand of a youth from Madison at the C. & N. W. depot last night.

"Pretty fair; but I don't know you," replied the capital city representative.

"You must know me. I am John Smith, who used to live on West Pickney street, and I know your father."

And then the conversation was lost as the two men started down town, closely followed by Officer Hogan who had been an unseen spectator. The officer finally stopped the Madisonian and told him he had better cut his "friend's" acquaintance. The stranger was recognized by Officer Hogan as a smooth confidence man from Cleveland, and if the policeman had not watched them, the Madison man would probably have had to go home in a barrel while the "friend" spent his money and pawned his clothes.

Minor Bits of Police News

The Newville mystery is still to be solved. Sheriff Appleby has written to the police in nearly all the cities of the state, but so far no one has been found missing. The chief of police of Racine replied that a man was missing from there who answered the description perfectly, but the next day a second report came that the missing man was found dead, floating in Lake Michigan.

Joe McDonald, a Beloit man was too loud for the police last night. He made himself well known to everyone in the vicinity of Main and Milwaukee streets, and Chief Acheson finally took him to jail.

Patsy Griffin was charged with being a common drunkard and vagrant when arraigned in the municipal court this morning. Patsy pleaded not guilty, and will have a trial after being given an opportunity to secure an attorney.

TRIED TO GET REST IN THE ROCK'S BED

J. STANTON BARELY SAVED FROM SUICIDE.

Was Climbing on the Rail of the Fourth Avenue Bridge When a Party of Workingmen Saw Him and Carried Him Back Out of Danger—His Wife in the Asylum.

Workingmen had hard work to prevent James Stanton from jumping off Fourth avenue bridge into deep water at noon today. He was dragged from the bridge railing and carried from the bridge complaining loudly that his head bothered him.

At 12:30 o'clock Stanton went out to about the middle of the bridge and climbed up in the railing. A party of workingmen saw him and ran up to him just in time to grab him and take him out of danger.

Wife in the Asylum.

Stanton is an unfortunate old man, supposed to be about sixty years old, although his broken down constitution would indicate him to be seventy or seventy-five. His wife is among the chronic insane at the county asylum, and for a year past he has been an inmate of the poor house, being sent there by Poormaster Kenyon from this city. This morning Stanton represented to Superintendent Aller at the county house that his head was bothering him and got permission to come to the city to consult a doctor. He left the county house early in the morning, but it is not known what time he reached the city or what doctor if any he visited.

Mind Has Been Unsettled

"While Stanton has been in the poor house for some time, we have known that he was troubled much with his head," said Superintendent Aller, after hearing of Stanton's attempt to commit suicide. "However, we never thought his head would amount to anything serious. Early in the spring he wanted to go away, claiming he could earn enough to keep him in summer. He was allowed to go, but soon returned."

It is said that he has relatives residing in the city. He will be returned to the county house and cared for.

Brown and Turner earned a generous recognition by their vagaries in the music line, and others on the programme were well received. Today two new members join the company, and there will be a complete change of bill.

'ALL SOULS' The Peoples Church

"Let there be many windows in your soul, That all the glory of the universe May beautify it. Not the narrow pane Of one poor creed can catch the radiant rays That shine from countless sources. Tear away The blinds of superstition; let the light Pour through fair windows broad as truth itself And high as God. Why should the spirit peer, Through some priest curtained orifice and grope Along dim corridors of doubt, when all The splendor from unfathomed seas of space Might bath it with their golden waves of love? Sweep up the debris of decaying faiths, Sweep down the cobwebs of worn-out beliefs, And throw your soul wide open to the light Of Reason and of Knowledge. Turn your ear To all the wordless music of the stars, And to the voice of nature and your heart Shall turn to truth goodness, as the plant Turns to the sun. A thou and unseen hands, Reach down to be yon to their peace-crown-height." And all the forces of the firmament Shall fortify your strength. Be not afraid To thrust aside half truth and grasp the whole."

RACING AT THE AQUARIUM.

Go-as-You-Please Contest Among Flounders and a Blackfish.

In one of the ponds at the aquarium at Castle Garden there are, with a few other fish, four middling-sized flounders, about a dozen white perch and a small blackfish, says the New York Sun. They get pretty tired of flying around doing nothing and every now and then start up and swim a sort of go-as-you-please race round and round the pool, keeping it up for an hour or more at a time. Usually the biggest flounder starts off and the three others follow. The flounders are often seen in the order of their size, strung out in single file and at pretty uniform distances apart. The big flounder is the quickest swimmer of the lot and occasionally gains a lap on his smaller companions. Very soon the white perch get interested, and they join in, following or swimming with the flounders. Though smaller than the flounders they are the quicker swimmers, and they are not at all overawed by the flounders' superior size; they swim ahead to win, every time, and occasionally they gain a lap. They may seem to be following with the smaller flounders, but all the time they are slowly gaining on them and pass them one after another, and finally, swerving a little, they pass the head flounder. Then they keep on until they come up with the other end of the procession again, and once more for a time seem to be a part of it. After awhile the blackfish appears, coming, perhaps, from the middle of the pool, and swinging his side fins slowly back and forth, as a single sculler might his oars when coming up to the scratch. After reaching the procession he starts swimming around the pool in the other direction. But he doesn't keep this up long. The flounders and the white perch don't care a snap which way he swims and they turn out for him mighty little and he soon tires of it, turns and swims with the rest, and then he makes a better showing, for he is a quicker and more powerful swimmer than any of them and he easily goes to the front. But as at first he had perversely started in the wrong direction, now he mars his victory by occasionally cutting across one end of the pool and joining the procession nearer the head than he belongs, the flounders and the white perch all following the whole course. The blackfish tires of it all pretty soon and withdraws altogether but the flounders and the white perch keep right along.

BODIES AS MEDICINE.

The Chinese Have a Firm Belief in Their Efficacy.

That belief the Chinese have in the remedial qualities of substances forming a part of the human body seems to be irradicable, says the New York Times. Thinking that Europeans still held the same ideas led as much as anything else to the Tien-Tsin massacres of twenty-five years ago. Prehistoric man drank from a human skull, believing that the uncanny goblet had a certain potency. Not so long ago the skull of a suicide was used in Caltheas as a drinking-cup for the cure of epilepsy. Cases have been cited where superstitious people, within the last thirty years, have dug up bodies so as to possess themselves of skulls for the same purpose. As late as 1673 in the official pharmacopoeia of London College of Physicians mention is made of the skull of a man who had died a "violent death." For centuries in the past, for the manufacture of certain quack nostrums, notably an ointment, ground skulls were used. The medical books of Nuremberg of 200 years ago always cite mummies—or the embalmed flesh of mummies—as a sovereign cure for certain diseases. The Egyptian mummy was a specific for one malady, the Teneriffe mummy for another. Excluding all the other strange substances employed in early medicine, there is a trace of cannibalism in the use of these mummified substances. It has been shown that cannibalism does not arise in all cases from hunger, but that to eat human flesh is a religious rite and favored by the gods. In some remote manner it has something to do with sacrifice. Describing superstitions, the fact is cited that to-day Irish peasants use skulls to hold water in under the belief that the water thus becomes curative.

DRESSMAKERS' BILLS.

A French Story with a Moral for Extravagant Wives.

Following the dispute of Mrs. Cooper Hewitt and her milliner comes the story of a frantic discussion in Paris as to whether a man is responsible for the bills his wife may run up at her dressmaker's, says the New York World. It has always been supposed that in such a case as this the unfortunate husband would have to open his pocketbook wide and pay the amount even though his heart-strings tugged. But the Paris courts have said no to this, and there is a wild stir in consequence throughout the entire world of bodice, skirt and coat designers. The story is a simple one. A certain Parisian manufacturer had a spouse who, while exemplary in every other respect, had for two years been running up a dressmaker's bill and paying nothing on account. The bill finally assumed the amazing proportions of $2,200. The husband meanwhile was in complete ignorance of her extravagance, and his first intimation of it was upon presentation of the bill. Assuming the mastery of his household, and bidding defiance to the world at large, he contested the claim, with the result that the Court of Appeal cut down the bill to 1,200, and decided that was all he should pay. The arguments of the French judiciary were that the husband was not bound if his wife's expenditure was out of proportion to his means and out of proportion to the circle in which they both lived. The crucial point in the case was that during these two years the dressmaker had made neither inquiry of nor referred to him.

WELDING METALLIC BODIES.

Royal Society of Belgium Has Promulgated Some New Facts.

The Royal Society of Belgium has published some additional facts in regard to the welding of metallic bodies by means of simple pressure at temperatures far below their fusing point. In these researches the plan pursued was to put the metals in the shape of cylinders bounded by plain surfaces, great care being also taken as to their purity, and, having been mounted and welded together by means of a hand-screw, they were placed in a heating oven and kept at a constant temperature between 200 and 400 degrees for from three to twelve hours. The result, as detailed, shows the most perfect joints were produced with gold, lead and tin, while the worst were with bismuth and antimony; two cylinders thus welded together could be put in a lathe, one of them only being held in the chuck, while the other was being worked upon by a cutting tool without coming apart. They could be separated with the aid of pincers, but then a rough breakage was produced which did not coincide with the original plane of separation. It appeared, too, that the more crystalline the bodies, the less this phenomenon of incipient liquefaction exhibited, the commencement of its appearance in the case of platinum, for instance, being at 1,600 degrees below its fusing point—that such a liquefaction or softening actually took place being abundantly proved by experiment.

A PECULIAR FALL.

Plunges Headfirst Into a Posthole Seven Feet Deep.

Mrs. Sarah Lewis, of Sioux City, Ia., is the victim of a peculiar accident, from the effects of which she is not likely ever fully to recover. During the past few days the Home Telephone Company has been digging holes all over the city for poles to be used in connection with its telephone system. Mrs. Lewis knew that several had been dug in the vicinity of her house, but had taken no particular notice of their location, and when she stepped to call her children, who had been playing in front of the house, she did not think it necessary to look out for them. The children did not prove to be as near as she had expected, and pushing through the tall grass along the sidewalk in search of them she suddenly stumbled over some obstruction and plunged head first down one of the holes. The hole was 7 feet deep, 26 inches in diameter at the top and 22 at the bottom, so that Mrs. Lewis, whose arms were pinned at her sides, was unable to relieve the weight resting on her head. She remained in this position for nearly half an hour, when a passer-by happened to hear her groans and pulled her out. She was then unable to stand and soon lapsed into unconsciousness, in which condition she has remained nearly ever since. Her nervous system is greatly shattered by the accident, and it is feared her brain or spine may also have been injured by the fall.

Mr. K. C. McLin.

Mr. K. C. McLin, of Kenosha, Wis., writes: "When I commenced taking your 'Discovery' I was very low with a cough, and at times spit up much blood. I was not able to do the least work, but most of the time was in bed. I was all run-down, very weak, my head was dizzy, and I was extremely despondent. The first bottle I took did not seem to do me much good, but I had faith in it and continued using it until I had taken fifteen bottles, and now I do not look nor feel like the same man I was one year ago. People are astonished, and say, 'well, last year this time I would not have thought that you would be living now.' I can thankfully say I am entirely cured of a disease which, but for your wonderful 'Discovery,' would have resulted in my death."

WAITING FOR A STORY.

What shall the story be, Golden Hair?
A fairy tale of a maiden fair,
Of giants and ogres and dangers past
Till she happily wed with the prince at last?

What will your story be, Golden Hair?
Will you and the prince make a happy pair,
Or sorrow and trouble, like giants of old,
Stand in the path till your tale be told?

Whatever your story be, Golden Hair,
Keep duty and truth in your loving care,
So may it be written when you are gone:
"All that she could do, that hath she done."
—Home and Country.

COLLABORATION.

If you are a man who values a peaceful domestic life above all things; if you happen to possess a bright and companionable young wife, with ideas of her own; if you are secretly immensely proud of her and her "parts," but fearful lest you encourage in her an arrogance of equality with you and your own, then beware of moments of sympathy and keep a guard upon your tongue in hours of confidence, lest they lead to the death of all future communion; lest, in short, peradventure they tempt you into collaboration with your wife.

In the case of Jones its beginning was very insidious. Jones had a magnificent idea for a plot. It was modern, without being unappealing—never was there a happier conception. But it had a flaw. There was a hitch in the action which disturbed the flow. Jones stared wildly at the paper on which he had jotted down "Outline of Plot" in his boldest hand. Staring did not seem to bring inspiration, and Jones forgot himself so far as to stamp upon the floor.

His wife heard the unwelcome sound. She was giving the children their nursery tea at the time, and a little plaster fell off the ceiling into one of their bread and milk bowls. She went up stairs.

"What's the matter with the poor boy, then?" she inquired. "The nursery ceiling's coming down. And what has he done to his nice smooth hair?"

"Oh, don't be an idiot!" groaned Jones. "I've got the finest idea I ever had in my life, and now I'm simply stuck."

His wife's little face became grave and important at once. She was a fair, pretty woman, with brown eyes and a little chin that stuck out.

"Tell me," said she coaxingly, settling on the arm of his big leather chair. Jones saw no warning shadow of coming collaboration.

"I'll just give you an idea of my plot," he said, and proceeded to do so. The "idea" took three-quarters of an hour to give. His wife listened, at first with a preoccupied air. She could not forget that an open jam pot stood on the nursery table at baby's elbow. Soon, however, the full beauty of the thing burst upon her. She got down from the arm of Jones' chair and embraced him with fervor.

"Talk of Stevenson indeed," she said compassionately, "or your Merediths and Hardy's people!"

"Come, come!" said Jones. He tried to tell her dryly "not to be an idiot," but the words would not come as easily as usual. After all, real appreciativeness is a rare gift.

"Write it straight away off, dear," she begged. "Write it, and get the money for it."

This brought the fatal hitch back upon Jones' consciousness in its full bitterness. He laid the case before his wife. She at once suggested the only possible way out of the difficulty.

"That would have occurred to me if I'd thought a minute longer," said Jones.

"Course it would, the clever boy!" said his wife soothingly, and she began to expand her plot. Jones listened patiently, sometimes vouchsafing encouragement, and she looked so pretty, so flushed and eager over it, that he was touched. In a demented moment he uttered the words that risked the happiness of two lives.

"Why shouldn't we write it together?" he said.

Once said, there was no unsaying it. Without a word his wife arose and went straight to the nearest stationer's. There he bought ten reams of manuscript paper and 2 shillings' worth of pens. All the rest of the day she was remarkably silent. Jones addressed her at the dinner table with a remark that had never yet failed to please.

"I always like you in that dress," he said. "It's a pretty idea, having those sleeves one can see the arms through. It's called net, or tulle, or something, isn't it?"

"One moment, please, dear," answered his wife, and her lips moved nately, in visible composition.

Then Jones remarked that her hair was arranged with less frivolity than usual. It showed more of her forehead, which gave an intellectual look. This was aided by a somewhat aggressive ink stain on one of her fingers.

Jones felt much as he did toward his baby boy when that infant played at being grown up and doin like daddy. He patted his wife's cheek. She received the advance with a touch of dignity. Jones began to feel a trifle irritated, and he scraped his foot under the table. His wife started a little elaborately, and then resumed the silent movement of her lips.

Next day, when he came back from his office, he found the plaster knocked off of the wall in three places. Trampling feet were heard in his own sacred study, and two finely developed young men from Shapleman's jostled him in his agitated progress up the stairs. He first into his sanctum, to find it filled with a writing table. Near the abomination stood his wife, regarding it with own eyes full of pensive pride.

"What in the world is this thing doing here?" gasped Jones.

"Why, you couldn't write anything without a writing table and how can you expect me to?" she inquired. Her air was so important, yet withal so silly, that Jones subdued his indignation and tried to laugh. When they had both left the room, he went back and permitted himself the satisfaction of kicking the thing gently in several places.

The evening saw them both established at their desks. The horrid impossibility of it all struck upon Jones only too soon. He had written the opening chapter in his best manner, and the time came when he wanted to read it out. To give her her due, his wife listened eagerly, and did him full justice when he ceased.

"And now listen to mine," she said blithely.

Jones felt it to be his own act and deed, and he resigned himself to listen. Her chapter was really not badly written! Her style was evidently modeled on his own. Jones put his finger tips together and smiled hopefully. But when it came to her hero, alas! not only had he "a comb at the back of his head," as Stevenson puts it, but he was altogether impossible. How to wipe him tenderly out of the chapter without breaking of hearts? Jones fidgeted distressfully.

"That's not quite the sort of thing a man would say, dear," he suggested mildly.

"Oh, isn't it!" she answered, with derision. "As it happens, a man did say it—those very words. Do you imagine you know how every kind of man talks to a woman when he's alone with her?"

"Heaven forbid!" said Jones. "And who said it to you, may I ask?"

"I didn't say it was said to me," she replied, with some haste. "How do you like this ending? I think it's rather neat, don't you? 'And when they had both left the conservatory there was something frail and pink lying on the marble floor. It was a moss rose bud.' I rather admire that sort of ending."

"Where is the point?" inquired Jones.

"Oh, well, if you want points to every single sentence!"

"Well, but don't you see that unless you mean something by it there's no sense at all in the thing? It's simply Family Herald 'business.' I should have thought you'd have seen that."

"It's a matter of taste, and I differ from you," said his wife very coldly, "and if we are to pick holes in each other's work allow me to tell you that no lady would have behaved as your heroine did in that hansom!"

"Why, that actually hap"—began Jones unwarily.

"I knew it!" cried his wife, overturning the ink bottle. "It was that day you saw Kitty Cameron home from the theater. I thought so at the time! She shall never enter my house again."

Jones was enraged, but saw a possible "score."

"It was on the same day," he said slowly, with a painstaking smile, "as that on which you permitted yourself to be addressed by a man, not your husband, in the way you so tastefully chose to read me."

There was a silence. They glared at one another. Then Jones' wife got up and left the room with a queenly step, closing the door behind her with ostentatious gentleness.

Jones heard no more about collaborating for some time, but next day the bill came in for the writing table—7 guineas.

He bargained with Shapleman, who consented to take it back for 4, and the incident closed.

Some months later Jones' book actually appeared, and his wife received numerous letters congratulating her on the authorship of it.

"What in the world do they mean?" he demanded.

"Why, dear," said she, a little shamefacedly, "I'm afraid I told most of them about that time when you and I—"

"Well, when we what?"

"Collaborated, dearest. Don't you remember?"—New Budget.

Tardy Praise For Boswell.

The London Standard showed a becoming respect for letters by devoting a "leader" the other day to the memory of Boswell, whose death took place a century ago. It makes perhaps more of a tragedy of his end than the facts quite justify, but it does recognize his place in literature, which after all is the essential. His follies were not greater than Goldsmith's, and yet the world by a silly trick went on sniffing at "Bozzy" for generations. That nonsense is happily now about dead. We are beginning to speak fittingly of one of the greatest writers in literature. Boswell is to all other biographers what Shakespeare is to other poets. Lockhart's "Life of Scott" is admirable, but it has only to be compared to the "Life of Johnson" to show Boswell's superiority. Is it not time that the great biographer had his own life worthily written?—St. James Gazette.

The Two Turkeys.

Mr. Lanigan's fable of "The Two Turkeys" has a fine cynical flavor that prodigal sons will relish: "An honest farmer once led his two turkeys into his granary and told them to eat, drink and be merry. One of these turkeys was wise and one foolish. The foolish bird at once indulged excessively in the pleasures of the stable, unsuspicious of the future, but the wiser fowl, in order that he might not be fattened and slaughtered, fasted continually, mortified his flesh and devoted himself to gloomy reflections upon the brevity of life. When Thanksgiving approached, the honest farmer killed both turkeys, and by placing a rock in the interior of the prudent turkey made him weigh more than his plumper brother.

Important Decision in Wisconsin.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 17.—Attorney General Mylrea has decided he will not move to vacate the judgments against against ex-Treasurer Baetz and Kuehn, amounting to over $200,000 in accordance with the law passed during the closing days of the Legislature. Mr. Mylrea holds not only the laws are constitutional, but the veto power in the case does not rest with the attorney general, and that for him to first go before the Supreme Court and test the constitutionality of the law would be presumption, as it is to be presumed the acts of the Legislature are constitutional.

Both Girls Put Under Arrest.

Seymour, Ind., July 17.—Dollie Belknap, charged with the poisoning of Mr. and Mrs. Fleming Sarver, her foster parents, has been arrested and had a preliminary trial. She told the same story published yesterday. She was held without bond. Coroner Scott held an inquest on the body of Mr. Sarver. Josie Derringer was also arrested as an accomplice.

Missouri Bank Looted.

Richmond, Mo., July 17.—The Farmers' bank of Orrick, situated ten miles southwest of Richmond, is in trouble. Its cashier, L. T. Parish, is missing, and it is reported that from $15,000 to $20,000 of the bank's funds are also missing. The president and vice president of the bank were in Richmond last Saturday afternoon consulting attorneys as to what steps to take in the matter.

A Dish Made Their Fortune.

Brandade is fresh cod boiled with onions, garlic, white pepper, laurel leaves and sage. It was brandade that, under the first Empire, laid the foundations of the fortune of the Trois Freres Provencaux. The three brothers, who were all good cooks, brought with them to Paris their recipe for brandade and other Provençal dishes.—London Telegraph.
